DEMANDED VENGEANCE
On Sunday Bob Brachett, on his way to Ivy township from Asheville, N. C., met Kity Henderson, daughter of a well-to-do and respectable farmer living near Weaverville, eight miles north of Asheville. He choked her into insensibility, assaulted her and left her unconscious. In a few hours bands of men were looking for a negro answering the meagre description Miss Henderson was able to give in moments of consciousness, but it was not until yesterday that he was found, thirty miles away, at the home of a negro preacher, in bed.

Brachett made no resistance, and confessed he was the man wanted. He was at once taken to the home of his victim, and the young lady reaffirmed positively that he was the man. The crowd outside had by this time learned of the negro's identification, and loud cries were raised against him.

Deputy McDonald stated to the crowd that the negro would be taken to Asheville. "I will pledge myself that the commissioners will call court the first of next week for trial," said the officer. As the negro stepped from the door Miss Henderson appeared on the step and exclaimed:

"I prayed in my helplessness that God would spare my life and send friends to avenge me, and now they have come to help me. You may hang him or burn him," and she fell back into her mother's arms half unconscious. Cries arose, "Hang him," "Burn him," Deputy Reynolds broke into the din with the remark, "Men, if you hang him, you are all known, and will be tried for murder."

"That's all right," replied the mad-dened crowd, "we will take care of that." But there was a waver of hesitation, when Walter Vandiver, a prominent citizen of Weaverville, rose in his stirrups and, with a few ringing words asked the men to save the fair name of the county from such a crime.

In the hesitation of the moment the negro was thrown on a horse, back of the deputy, and the 300 men of the neighborhood, falling behind the officer and prisoner, came into Asheville, where through a crowd numbering perhaps 1,000, he was taken to the county jail. On the way in the negro confessed that he was Miss Henderson's assailant. Court will be convened probably to-morrow to try Brachett.

FLORIDA ORANGE CROP.—A Jacksonville (Fla.) correspondent writes: Officers of the Florida Fruit Exchange, who keep themselves posted on the condition of the orange crop throughout the State, now estimate that the crop this fall will amount to between 150,000 and 200,000 boxes. The bulk of the oranges will come from the counties of Manatee and Lee. Volusia county will come next with from 15,000 to 20,000 boxes. The crop would probably have reached 250,000 boxes had it not been for the drought in the spring and early summer. These caused quantities of small oranges to drop from the trees, especially in the middle orange-growing section of the State. In 1895 the probabilities are, freezes and droughts barred, the crop will reach as high as 600,000 boxes. All of the orange growers are sanguine of success. They have now tided over the worst period, that following the disaster of the freeze, and have restored their groves to something like their old time beauty.

A Valuable Prescription.
Editor Morrison of the Worthington, Ind., "Sun," writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for Constipation and Sick Headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2025 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1.00. Get a Bottle at E. L. Allen's Drug Store.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and when the endorsement is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Dr. R. E. Robey, physician and pharmacist, of Olney, Mo., and as he has used the remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for six years he should certainly know. For sale by J. H. Janney, Druggist, 701 King Street.

For Over Fifty Years
AN OLD AND WELL-TRIED REMEDY.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children with teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. It is pleasant to the taste. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. It is invaluable. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind.
